Tatiana Silva to join TF1/LCI's weather team in March

The TF1 group is pleased to announce the arrival of Tatiana Silva, who will shortly be joining TF1/LCI's weather team, headed up by Evelyne Dhéliat. She will start presenting weather forecasts on TF1 and LCI this month.

Catherine Nayl, Executive Vice President, News at the TF1 group, says: "Evelyne Dhéliat and I are delighted to welcome Tatiana Silva. She has several years' experience of presenting the weather and we were impressed by her enthusiasm, motivation and mastery of the subject".

Born in Brussels on 5 February 1985 and currently presenting the weather on Belgian and French channels, Tatiana Silva started out in television in 2009 on the RTBF channel. She has presented a number of programmes on RTBF, including a popular nature watch programme called "Printemps, grandeur nature". Currently she is presenting a monthly culture show called "C'est du Belge", and a weekly magazine programme focusing on well-being and sustainable development, called "Vis ta mine".

Voted Miss Belgium in 2005, she has put her celebrity status at the service of several charities. She is currently a UNICEF ambassador.
